This book uses previously unknown archive materials to explore the meaning of the term ' incapable of work ' over a hundred years (1911–present). Nowadays, people claiming disability benefits must undergo medical tests to assess whether or not they are capable of work. Media reports and high profile campaigns highlight the problems with this system and question whether the process is fair. These debates are not new and, in this book, Jackie Gulland looks at similar questions about how to assess people ' s capacity for work from the beginning of the welfare state in the early 20th century. Amongst many subject areas, she explores women ' s roles in the domestic sphere and how these were used to consider their capacity for work in the labour market. The book concludes that incapacity benefit decision making is really about work: what work is, what it is not, who should do it, who should be compensated when work does not provide a sufficient income and who should be exempted from any requirement to look for it.

This open access book introduces the human development model to define disability and map its links with health and wellbeing, based on Sen's capability approach. The author uses panel survey data with internationally comparable questions on disability for Ethiopia, Malawi, Tanzania and Uganda. It presents evidence on the prevalence of disability and its strong and consistent association with multidimensional poverty, mortality, economic insecurity and deprivations in education, morbidity and employment. It shows that disability needs to be considered from multiple angles including aging, gender, health and poverty. Ultimately, this study makes a call for inclusion and prevention interventions as solutions to the deprivations associated with impairments and health conditions. This work was published by Saint Philip Street Press pursuant to a Creative Commons license permitting commercial use. This publication is a comprehensive assessment of leading risks to global health. It provides detailed global and regional estimates of premature mortality, disability and loss of health attributable to 24 global risk factors.--Publisher's description.

This book contains 13 papers from a workshop convened to explore the causes of work disability and the types of interventions that might enable individuals to remain at work, return to work, or enter the work force for the first time, despite having chronic health conditions or impairments. Following an overview of the papers by editors Jerry L. Mashaw and Virginia P. Reno, the following papers are included: "The Contemporary Labor Market and the Employment Prospects of Persons with Disabilities" (Edward Yelin, Miriam Cisternas); "Employment and Economic Well-Being Following the Onset of a Disability: The Role for Public Policy" (Richard V. Burkhauser, Mary C. Daly); "Employment and Benefits for People with Diverse Disabilities" (Walter Y. Oi); "European Experiences with Disability Policy" (Leo J. M. Aarts, Philip R. de Jong); "Patterns of Return to Work in a Cohort of Disabled-Worker Beneficiaries" (Martynas A. Ycas); "The Effectiveness of Financial Work Incentives in Social Security Disability Insurance and Supplemental Security Income: Lessons from Other Transfer Programs" (Hilary Williamson Hoynes, Robert Moffitt); "Lessons from the Vocational Rehabilitation/Social Security Administration Experience" (Edward Berkowitz, David Dean); "Disability and Work: Lessons from the Private Sector" (H. Allan Hunt et al.); "Quantitative Outcomes of the Transitional Employment Training Demonstration: Summary of Net Impacts" (Aaron J. Prero); "Policies for People with Disabilities in U.S. Employment and Training Programs" (Burt S. Barnow); "Improving the Return to Work of Social Security Disability Beneficiaries" (Monroe Berkowitz); "People with Disabilities: Access to Health Care and Related Benefits" (Robert B. Friedland, Alison Evans); and "Health Care, Personal Assistance and Assistive Technology: Are In-Kind Benefits Key to Independence or Dependence for People with Disabilities?" (Andrew I. Batavia). The papers contain extensive references lists. (KC)
